war, who joined the BJP during the Lok Sabha polls.

In his letter to Kejriwal, Gahlot, elected twice from the Najafgarh seat, said that the party had moved from fighting for people's rights to fighting for its own political agenda.

He wrote that the party faces "grave challenges".

"Political ambitions have overtaken our commitment towards people, leaving many promises unfulfilled. Take for example the Yamuna, which underlined "another painful point" that "instead of fighting for people's rights, we have increasingly only been fighting for our own political agenda".

"This has severely crippled our ability to even deliver basic services to the people of Delhi. It is now obvious that real progress for Delhi cannot happen if the Delhi Government spends the majority of its time fighting with the Centre," he

Parties in Maha

face challenge

VANDITA MISHRA Nagpur, November 17

AS THE CAMPAIGN ends in Maharashtra, and voters get ready to choose, all political parties face a sharp and shared challenge, regardless of who loses and who wins.

In the first Assembly election held after the "tod phod" (splitting of parties), which took the main contenders from four to six, rearranged traditional alliances beyond recognition by bringing together unlikely partners, and in which the sheer number of candidates has touched new highs in several constituencies, many voters in Maharashtra this time appear unwilling to suspend disbelief.

They speak of a "dividation" on the rise, and of the growing irrelevance of "paksh" or party. Voter distrust of party politics seems to have a new edge. This erosion of trust will arguably influence the outcome of this election - but in a party-led representative democracy, it is also a warning bell in the long term that all political parties must heed.

In a journey through Vidarbha's Nagpur, Bhandara, Gondia, Wardha, Amravati, Akola and Buldhana districts including some of the most backward areas in a state of glaring regional inequalities -The Indian Express found that voter disillusion with parties and the resulting focus on candidates is making election choices more difficult to predict. Whether the localisation works for Congress and the alliance it leads, the Maha Vikas Aghadi, or for the BJP and its alliance, the Mahayuti -
